On the Cover: Senior co-captains John Havrilla (l) and Steven Dougan return to lead the Philadelphia University Men’s Soccer Team in 2003. As three-year starters on defense, the duo will be vital to the success of first-year Head Coach Greg Wilson’s team. In addition to Havrilla and Dougan, Wilson also returns 13 letterwinners from last year’s squad.
This is Philadelphia University

Philadelphia University, founded in 1884, is a private university with 3,500 part- and full-time students from 38 states and 42 countries. The University offers more than 40 undergraduate and graduate degree programs leading to the bachelor of science, bachelor of architecture, master’s degrees and a doctoral degree in Textile Engineering and Science. Academic programs encompass architecture, design, business, textiles, fashion, science and health.

Through a unique blend of liberal and specialized education, the University prepares students to become competent professionals in today’s complex, interdependent global society. Recognized as a premier professional university, Philadelphia University has established a phenomenal record of career success for its graduates. The University maintains that success through extensive networking with prospective employers, innovative programs that meet emerging needs in the marketplace and extensive career planning support for students. It all adds up to a placement rate consistently over 90 percent.

Primarily a teaching institution, the University encourages close connections between faculty and students. Classes are intentionally kept small and faculty make a practice of being available to students outside the classroom. Often, students can partner with faculty members to pursue joint research interests and gain career experience. Our faculty is a diverse group of professionals who hold not only strong academic credentials but frequently possess impressive work experience.

The University holds accreditation from: National Architectural Accrediting Board (NAAB); Foundation for Interior Design Education and Research (FIDER); American Chemical Society (ACS); Commission on Accreditation of Allied Health Education Programs (CAAHEP); Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools.

Head Coach Greg Wilson enters his first year as the Philadelphia University men’s soccer coach this fall. A former standout as a player with the Rams in the early 1990’s, Wilson becomes the tenth coach in the program’s storied history and succeeds former head coach John Dunlop, who resigned following the 2002 campaign.

“We are very excited to have Greg joining our staff,” said Philadelphia University Director of Athletics Tom Shirley. “As an alumnus, Greg is someone that many of our fans will recognize from his playing days and they will be very pleased to see the coach that he has become.”

Wilson, a native of Downingtown, Pa., joins the program after serving on staff at the University of Pennsylvania in 2002 where he helped the Quakers to the NCAA Division I Tournament. Prior to his stint at Penn, Wilson compiled an impressive 100-15-6 record in five years at Downingtown High School, including winning the PIAA State Championship in 1998 and 1999 while his teams finished in the Top 20 in the final NSCAA National Soccer Coaches Association of America (NSCAA) High School rankings. For his efforts, he was named the Southeastern Pennsylvania Soccer Coaches Association and Daily Local News Coach of the Year in 1998 and 2001, as well as being named the 1998 Philadelphia Inquirer Coach of the Year.

As a player, Wilson played for a USYSA (Pa.) team that won numerous state championships as well as a Region I title. He was also an Eastern Pennsylvania Youth Soccer Association (EPYSA) Olympic Development Program and Regional player as well. In 1989, Greg was named NSCAA High School All-American as a member of the state champion Downingtown High team. At then-Philadelphia Textile, Wilson was a four-year starter for the Rams, earning Philadelphia Soccer Seven All-Star honors as a senior and he remains tied for ninth all-time in school history with 20 career assists. After graduating with a degree in marketing in 1994, Wilson played three years for the Philadelphia Freedom in the USISL before embarking on his coaching career.

Wilson is the former Director of EPYSA and is a member of the Eastern Pennsylvania Olympic Development Program coaching staff. He serves as a coaching instructor for United States Soccer Federation State “D” & National “C’ License Courses. Wilson’s professional experience also includes the selection of an U-23 amateur team to participate in the Region I Festival.

At the club level, Wilson led FC DELCO to a 1998 USYSA Regional I Championship, as well as earning USYSA State Cup Championships in 1996, 1998 and 2000. Wilson holds a United States Soccer Federation (USSF) “A” license and a NSCAA “Advanced National Diploma.”

Wilson currently serves on the Middle Atlantic Regional Advisory Committee for the NCAA Division I Men’s Soccer. He is the former President of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Soccer Coaches Association and is a member of the PSCA, NSCAA and USSF while also serving on the NSCAA High School All-America Selection Committee.

“Greg has had tremendous success at nearly every level, as both a coach and player, and we feel that will continue at Philadelphia University,” said Shirley. “He has shown that he is prepared to lead our program, both on and off the field. We are looking to continue the tradition that he was once a part of as a player and we are very excited about the prospects.”

Wilson and wife, Andrea, were married in August and reside in Philadelphia, Pa.
Assistant Coaches

Mick Statham

Mick Statham enters his first year as assistant coach at Philadelphia University, joining first-year head coach Greg Wilson’s staff. Statham brings a plethora of both playing and coaching experience to the sideline for the Rams.

In addition to the University, Statham serves as team administrator and assistant coach for the Philadelphia Charge of the WUSA as well as the former Director of Coaching and Player Development for the FC Delco Soccer Club in Downingtown, Pa. He also serves as the Head Girls Varsity Coach at Radnor High School in Radnor, Pa., where he guided the team to it’s only PIAA state title.

Prior to coaching, Statham was a standout player for the Blackburn Rovers FC in his native England from 1983 through 1987. Statham then lettered four years at Franklin Pierce (N.H.) College, helping the Ravens to the NCAA Division II Tournament in three of four seasons. This included a trip to the Final Four in 1991, where Statham served as team captain. An All-New England selection in 1990 for Franklin Pierce, Statham earned a degree in communications in 1992.

Mick and his wife, Kelly, have three children and reside in West Chester, Pa.

Peter Pappas

Peter Pappas, a former Regional All-American goalkeeper for the Rams, returns to his alma mater for his first season as a volunteer assistant coach. During his standout collegiate career, Pappas was a three-time Philadelphia Soccer Seven All-Star and the 1994 Soccer Seven Player of the Year.

A native of Toronto, Ontario, Canada, Pappas will bring to the program his professional playing experience and goalkeeping knowledge to help the Philadelphia University soccer program in their quest to gain the Atlantic Soccer Conference title.

The current goalkeeper for the Philadelphia Kixx of the Major Indoor Soccer League (MISL), Pappas is in his seventh season, appearing in an unprecedented six straight all-star games. He was voted the 2000-01 MILS Co-Goalkeeper of the Year and received the First Union Most Valuable Player Award on two occasions. In 2001-2002 Pappas led the Kixx to their first MISL Championship. Pappas’ professional playing career has also included one A League season with the Hershey Wildcats and two with the Staten Island Vipers where he led the league in GAA.

Pappas and his wife, Kristina and son Luka reside in Drexel Park, Pa.

Season Outlook

It’s the beginning of a new era for the Philadelphia University men’s soccer program, as former Ram standout Greg Wilson begins his first year as the team’s mentor. Wilson, who was a member of the University of Pennsylvania coaching staff last season, takes over for John Dunlop, who resigned following the 2002 campaign.

“First of all, I am very excited for the opportunity to lead my alma mater,” said Wilson, who compiled a stellar 100-15-6 mark as the head coach of Downingtown (Pa.) High School including a pair of PIAA state championships. “This is a tremendous opportunity to continue the rich tradition that has been forged here at the University through the years.”

Two players that will have key roles in helping continue the tradition are senior co-captains Steven Dougan and John Havrilla. Dougan, a native of Scotland, has been a three-year starter as a center back for the Rams, while Havrilla, one of the team’s top two-way players, is also a three-year starter. “Our back four will likely be the strength of our team this year and Steven and John will be our two biggest keys,” said Wilson, who will be assisted this season by Mick Statham and former Rams’ standout Peter Pappas. “Steven is a steady, disciplined defensive-minded player with a strong personality that will serve as a leader in the back. John, meanwhile, is one of our top man-markers and also possesses the ability to come forward into the attack, as exhibited by the four goals he scored as a sophomore.”

Joining Dougan and Havrilla in the Rams’ backfield will be fellow senior Lou Sigmund and sophomore Chris Williams, along with the freshman duo of Franco Ruscetta and Luca Zucal. Sigmund, who has started each of the last two years for the Rams after transferring from the U.S. Naval Academy, provides the team with a solid physical presence. Williams, meanwhile, started ten of 12 contests last season before suffering a season-ending leg injury. “Lou is strong in possession with excellent one-on-one ability as a defender. He also is one of the team leaders on and off the field as well,” said Wilson. “We are also looking for big things from Chris this season. He is a physically-gifted player that will serve as a cornerstone for our defense for the next two years and playing alongside players like Steven, John and Lou will prepare him for the eventual leadership role we hope he assumes.”

The beneficiaries of the team’s strong defensive corps will be goalkeepers Scott Nixon and Justin Hewins. Nixon, a senior, started 11 contests a year ago, finishing with a 2-8-1 record with a 1.73 goals-against-average. Hewins, meanwhile, showed excellent potential as a redshirt freshman in 2002, compiling a 3-2-0 record with a 1.33 goals-against-average. “We have no clear-cut leader for the starting job heading into camp,” said Wilson of his two netminders. “They each have their strong points. Scott is solid technically and sound fundamentally and has experience on his side. Justin, meanwhile, is very athletic and has an excellent work ethic. Both players have the ability to serve as the starting keeper, but the one that comes into camp prepared and focused will see time between the posts.”

In the midfield, Wilson returns seniors Josip Babic and Andy Wallover along with junior Paul Ordway and sophomores Christian Chavez, Rick Meyers and Frank White. Also joining the mix will be newcomers Jason Miller, Steve Noriega and Wilson Quintero. “Josip looks to be 100% healthy entering camp and is entrenched in one starting spot, most likely on the outside,” said Wilson. “He is an excellent two-way player and we are looking for him to return to the form he showed his freshman year.”

Wallower and Ordway will also look to make their respective marks in 2003 as well. “Andy is a hard-working player that can help us in a number of ways, but he is somewhat inexperienced in game situations,” said Wilson. “Paul is a talented player that has scored some big goals in his first two years, but he needs to find a level of consistency. Among the sophomores, Frank had the biggest impact last season, but all three have shown an ability to contribute at this level.”

Up front, Wilson has a young, but talented trio of players in junior Nolan Dzielak and sophomores Frederick Douglas and Sherwin Forde. Dzielak earned Atlantic Soccer Conference second-team All-Conference accolades last season after posting two goals and one assist in 13 games for the Rams. “Nolan is a potentially explosive scorer that managed to produce last season despite battling various injuries,” said Wilson of the third-year player. “He is very good with his back to the goal and his natural instincts around the net make him very dangerous.”

“Frederick and Sherwin also fought through some injuries last year, but look to be healthy this season. Frederick has tremendous speed and plays with a good pace with or without the ball. His creativity and athleticism make him an impact player and with a good year, he has the ability to significantly upgrade our offensive production,” Wilson said. “Sherwin, meanwhile, is somewhat of an unknown as he was limited much more by injuries during last season and during the spring as well, but from what I see, he will be a significant contributor up front, where he can create additional scoring opportunities for us.”

As Wilson and his team prepare for the upcoming 2003 season, he knows well the challenge that lies ahead. “The Atlantic Soccer Conference is one of the toughest leagues, top to bottom, in NCAA Division I,” said Wilson. “Not many teams across the country would welcome the opportunity to play at Florida International or at Hartwick College. You know that your team has to prepare to play 90 minutes of soccer each and every game and over the long haul of the season, that’s tough to do. That being said, we have some very talented players on this team and with their character and hard work, we will be prepared to take on the challenge that lies ahead of us.”

“This year’s team is a great group of young men and should provide the correct leadership for what we hope will be an exciting year and the foundation for our future.”

Ravenhill Field

Ravenhill Field (Cap. 2,000) serves not only as the home of both the Philadelphia University men’s and women’s soccer teams, but also as the home of the University’s nationally-prominent women’s lacrosse team as well. Throughout the history of the program, the men’s soccer team has had tremendous success at Ravenhill Field, as well as the team’s previous home field, Alumni Field, compiling an amazing 249-72-37 record at home in the history of the program. This mark includes 16 NCAA Tournament appearances and two Final Fours. This season, first-year head coach Greg Wilson and his squad will play nine contests at Ravenhill Field beginning with city rival St. Joseph’s University on September 20th.
